

My personal experience at the Pierpont Hotel [REDACTED]

The overall night was awesome. I was in a small group with Carol and Sharon. I had a K2 meter and a EVP recorder. Carol had a video camera and an EVP recorder and Sharon had a camera and a thermometer. We went to the Bar Room first.

The Bar Room

When Carol Sharon and I walked in to the Bar Room, we started to ask some questions. I was walking around the room, it was a larger room and had a divider running half way across, looking to see what readings I was getting on my K2 meter. I actually had nothing spike while walking the perimeter of the room. I then started asking questions with the girls. At one point Carol had asked "I heard you like to bark at people when they are in here. Come on, say our names!" I then stated out loud "Yeah! Bark at me!!" Well, almost instantly I had this crazy sharp tingle go through my body. My K2 meter had jumped all the way to its highest measurement and held for a second or two. My heart was thumping and I had a huge smile on my face when I asked Carol if she saw my K2 go all the way into the red! I told her, "I guess I was just barked at!!" Sharon came over near us and the three of us started to ask more questions. We were standing in the section of the room by the bar but in between the last row of tables by the kitchen doors. My K2 would jump from green and yellow all the way to red. Carol set her video camera up on the K@ and area we were in. We tried asking yes or no questions, one spike for yes, two for no. It seemed to reply some of the time. We also tested the time in between the spikes in case it was a current coming from somewhere that could have been causing it. It ran about 45 seconds but there were a few times it was shorter or longer. Now this whole time, Sharon was holding a thermometer and it could not sit still. The temp jumped anywhere from 65 to 72, 73. We asked it to drop to 65 and it sure seemed to try!! It was hard to tell if it was coming from something not paranormal. We did hear a couple loud bangs in the kitchen which no one was in at the time. We set up a glass on the table and said for whom ever we were speaking to, to push it off the edge. Nothing happened. We had also set a pen on the glass and it never moved either. The three of us walked behind the bar this time and asked more questions. It felt a bit heavier back there to me but nothing strange happened. My K2 meter was not doing anything either. We then said our goodbyes and walked out of the room.

The Party Room

The three of us walked in and it was so cold! It read in the 50`s on Sharon`s thermometer so we sat down and asked questions. No response, no K2 readings and the temp was pretty steady. We checked the maid`s closet as well and nothing was going on. We asked some more questions and then left.

The 50's Room

We walked in and wondered around for a few minutes. We asked a couple questions while watching my K2. Sharon was watching her thermometer and Carol had her Video camera. We walked up the stairs in the living room and then to the bedroom. We all sat down and Sharon took more pictures with her camera. Nothing was happening. Now earlier when the whole group was in there, we talked about people hearing voices while in bed. We seemed to debunk this because the vents on the floor allowed us to hear the TV set from the room below. We us three girls were in there, no TV set was on and the noise from the freeway was really loud. After a short while, we left.

The Hallway

The second we opened the door to the hallway upstairs, there was a very heavy smell of flowers. It got stronger as we got closer to the end of the hallway. I didn't feel anything strange but was very curious as to what the flower smell was coming from. I went to ask the maid what she might have sprayed up there. She said nothing tonight because we were doing our investigation. I had her spray some on a towel anyway and took it back up to the hallway. Not a match. It was about this time Chris came up to join us. Sharon and I walked into the office closet where papers have been known to move on their own. We asked questions and took pictures. Nothing read on my K2 unless I held it high up. It was reading like it was electrical. She and I then walked through the little office space and down another hall. We asked questions, took pictures and My K2 was picking up all the electrical in the hallway. There was a lot. The rest of the group came up at this point and we talked about the ball carol had left up there for the "little girl" and how one of the infrared cameras was not in the same position. We all stayed p there for a while longer then left.

The V????? Room

After we had the door unlocked the entire group walked in and divided off into our areas. Kevin, Mahaya and I sat down in the meeting room or dining room. We asked questions, took some pictures. My K2 was still but Kevin's meter was acting a bit weird. His measurements would go up then down back and forth. Sharon came in a short while later and joined in. We spent 20-30 minutes in there then the group joined back up and we left.

My night overall

I had a blast! The people in the group are great and the way everything was handled, it is very easy to feel comfortable. I would have to say that the only time I felt something that may have been paranormal was in the Bar Room. I hope to have picked up some EVP's from that room at that time but we will see. It also could have been mind over mater. We didn't have enough proof to debunk it or prove it paranormal.
